Along with the identification of the most efficient business plan, it is essential to pinpoint the expectations of entrepreneurs from their business advisors.

The entrepreneurs have to identify their own ideal business advisory relationship by writing down the answers to the following questions:

- What will be the greatest challenge as a business advisor to potential entrepreneurs?
- How will the combination of teaching applicable business models and assignment development can lead to a successful business advising?
- What special information should potential entrepreneurs seek to obtain about their future business advisors?
